THE CHINA MAIL.

HONGKONG, FRIDAY, NOV. 22, 1878.

A CORRESPONDENT very properly enquired last night what has been the result of the appointment of the Commission to enquire into the working of the "Contagious Diseases' Ordinance, It is now more than a year since the Commission held its first meeting, and up to the present moment not a word has been published regarding the results their labours. Fortunately the matter is not a very pressing one; nor are we very sanguine that the Colony will ever derive much benefit from the labours of the Commission. We hear it whispered that among the conclusions arrived at by the Commission was one that the principle of medical examinations could never be applied to purely Chinese brothels. The means adopted for suppressing unlicensed brothels were also found extremely objectionable, and their continuance have probably not been recommended, although whether the Commission advises that unlicensed brothels should be allowed to have their swing without let or hindrance we are unable to learn. In a general way the conclusions arrived at by the Commission are said to have been unfavourable to the Ordinance; indeed the licensed houses were held to be a source of danger in themselves, as giving rise to a false Benedict's opera "The Lily of Killarney." sense of security among those frequent- Miss Clara Stanley will take the part of ing them. We also learn that the Commission, after taking evidence which occupies over 800 printed pages, applied to a high medical authority for his opinion in considerable expense for scenery and dresses, regard to the operation of the Ordinance, to render the opera a thorough success. he might be able to offer. It is reported that the opinions of this authority varied considerably from the conclusions arrived at by the Commission. His opinions were, we understand, that the operation of the Ordinance had, so far as Her themselves for the preparation of the opera, Majesty's naval forces were concerned. resulted in a considerable diminution of the amount of veneral disease contracted in Hongkong, and in the type being much modified. The same au to predict that to-moorow night's performthority also, we believe, suggested that all brothels in the Colony be placed on the same footing as to the examination of prostitutes; that prostitution in unlicensed houses and places be pronounced illegal and punished accordingly; that all prostitutes be registered, and subject two or three months. to undergo examinations as ordered, under penalty if refusing that no drunken man be admitted into a brothel, and no man allowed to take intoxicating Blahop Raimondi's consecration, high mass reasons why an Ordinance of this kind could not be carried out as easily and effectively here as in other parts of the British empire. It cannot be expected that a law of this kind will be readily received by those whom it affects, or that these people will do otherwise than obstruct the operation of the Ordinance. Similar laws are, we believe, in force in the whole, or nearly the whole, of the garrison towns in England, as well as in most of the British military stations abroad. Here the Administration, in carrying out the provisions of the Ordinance, have not to encounter that dogged opposition which is exhibited to the introduction of the contagious diseases' regulations among communities at Home. It is a questionable point whetheir or not it is worth while to apply the regulations to native as well as to foreign houses. Many people will proconsiderable, the Administration will Steamer leaves for Yokohama and San Should, however, it be found that the application of the regulations to native houses is necessary for the effective working of the Ordinance in regard to foreigners, there ought to be no hesitation in applying the same regulations to Chinese as it is deemed desirable to apply to Europeans. This is a British Colony, and those who take up their abode here must be prepared to submit to British law.

> WE have received a work of 370 pages, entitled "Progressive Japan," being a study of the political and social needs of the empire by General Le Gendre. author considers that the general shape and position of Japan indicate a special aptitude for action. She forms the head of a series of volcanic islands, which pass down the Pacific and China sea and finally end at India. "This chain of islands seems," says General Le Gendre, "to have been located especially round the Eastern boundary of the Old World to form the advanced posts of a transformed superior civilization, returning with man by a course indicated by that of the sun, to seize upon the place of its birth and give a new impulse to its suffering races and otherwise prepare them for their coming evolution in the vortex of ages." This reads very well, but we scarcely follow the General. The author speaks of this chain of islands being peopled by a particularly progressive race. This is whitewashing the Formosan savage and the Papuan cannibal with a vengeance. The book contains numerous tables and very pretty map of Japan. It is published by C. Levy, of New York and Yoko

THE closing performance of the opera season

We believe the Company have taken unusual trouble, and have gone to and for any suggestions on the matter | The whole of the well-known scenes in this somewhat tragic opera are to be produced, including the celebrated cave scene, with water and the other accessories. Considering the length of time the Company have allowed the extra trouble that has been taken in regard to scenery etc., and the stirring character of the opera itself, we venture ance will be one of the most successful ones, if not the most encoessful one, of the season, and doubtless a well-filled house will reward the Company for their efforts to entertain the public here during the last

THE Benefit Concert given to Miss May bably be of opinion that if the Chinese at the City Hall last evening was not exhibit a dislike to the operations under so unquestioned a success as it might the Ordinance, and the trouble of apply- and ought to have been. Although the ing its provisions to native houses is house was not a bumper, it was fairly well filled, and the audience was goodnatured and appreciative, while nearly everything except good management was forthcoming to secure a successful entertainment. Better management, for instance, would have disposed of the difficulties of singing in the Theatre by holding the concert elsewhere. .. It is to be hoped, however, that the entertainment accomplished the object of its promoters, viz., that of giving Miss May a substantial acknowledgment of the efforts she has lately made jointly with others to entertain the Hongkong public. Miss May is the possessor of a very sweet voice, and this has been generally acknowledged by musiclovers here, - a recommendation of which, we may add, the young prima donna need not be sahamed wherever she may go. after an overture, which was well played by Mr Papiers, Miss May and members of the Choral Society sang the " Red, Red Rose." This piece might have been greatly improved by more practice; but as it was, the fine voice of the soprano was somewhat overweighted by those of the other parts. The baritone solo ("Ein Schutz bin ich") by Mr Hirst, was well sung, and vociferously encored, when this popular amateur gave the first verse over again. Miss May next sang "The Power of Love" (Satanella), which is one of her best songs; and though she did not sing it so excellently well as we have heard her before in the opera, her rendering was rapturously encored; when she substituted a pleasing ballad. Probably the best vocal treat of the evening was the Duett (8 prano and Baritone "Para Siccome un angelo"), by Miss May and Mr Hirst. Although even here there might have been an infusion of more life in the rendering, the music is superior to Sciencila, and the harmony of the voices was such that one rarely meets with except in exclusively professional circles. In Part II., the quartette by Messrs Robinson, Dunman, Hirst and Williamson, was slightly marred by the first tenor being slightly out of voice, but otherwise gave much satisfaction. It is always a doubtful experiment to give cuttings from Hamlet, and when we say that Miss May as the mad Ophelia was last night scarcely consonant with other parts of the programme, there is no censure involved either in the acting or singing of the fair artiste. By saying this we mean that it would be unfair to judge Miss May in high tragedy from the fragment of last night. To musicians the treat of the evening would doubtless be the Sonata (Beethoven, Or. 12-Violin and Planeforte) by Messrs Emery and Sangater. This was played in unexceptionable style. and it was a great pity that even the faintest strain of the violin was lost or weakened by the unfortunate construction of the stage. Mr Dunman's "Good Night" was very well sung and warmly applauded, a huge bouquet having been thrown at the feet of the astonished amateur by some of his enthusiastic confreres. The "Men of Harlech" (Chorus) may now be said to as it last night closed say the seventh entertainment in this Colony, it behoveth us now to may requiescat. Nevertheless, it was correctly aung on this occasion by the few members of the Choral Society present. and warmly received, as a martial bearing goes a long way at present. We trust that Miss May will find as great success and well-meant support elsewhere as she had so long deservedly commanded in musicloving Hongkong.

IT will be seen from our Australian items. published in another column, that the Educati n question has been discussed in the Legislative Asssembly at Melbourne, the debate lasting till a late hour on the night of Oct. 17th. "Every speaker," it is stated, "denounced the agitation to introduce religious teaching in State Schouls," Mr Hennessy lately stated that the Colony of Hongkong was the only spot in the British Empire where the secular system of education was officially reorgained. Our information and experience do not agree with the statements here made, rather recklessly perhaps, by lik Excellency but residents must judge for themselves. The Melbourne correspondent of the Sydney Morning Herald writes on Ugt, 21st as follows :--

The old warfare on the battle-ground of education and religion has been revived. just when we thought the contest had been settled for ever. But in truth, it is only a priest cry. The laity are content with the Education Act compromise, and do not desire that the condition of things should be disturbed. The secular system has been found to work very well, and it is found

CORRESPONDENCE.

To the Editor of the "CHINA MAIL." Hongkong, Nov. 22, 1878, Sin.—Your readers may remember that, during the troubles in the Barbadoes, defence of Mr Pope Hennessy's policy appeared in the London Times, from the pen of one who was too conversant with that policy to render it doubtful that he had access to information which few people could give. Might it not be well to watch the Times, for there we may see the reflection of our unfortunate selves and learn from that inspired organ, to "see ourselves as others see us." I believe it to be contrary to regulations for any officer of Her Majesty's service to write to the newspapers on political matters; but I may be mistaken.

(Courier.) We hear that half of the first price of the Manila Lottery for November has come to Shanghai, the fortunate recipient being a coolie in Messrs Jardine, Matheson & Co.'s. The other half of the same ticket, we are informed, went to Tientsin.

The following is the finding of the Nava

Quelpart:— "That taking into consideration the sobriety of the Master and the unusually long continuance and violence of the adverse winds experienced during the ten days-since leaving Shanghai, the Court considers that a reprimand of the Master for certain errors in judgment will sufficiently meet the circumstances of the case, and the Court doth therefore adjudge him, the said John Taylor, to be reprimended accordingly, and further that the costs of the proceedings be paid by the owners."

A Chefoo correspondent writes under date 12th Nov., 1878 :- The weather has turned cold all of a sudden; the thermometer has been as low as 20 . We have had a fall of snow, but not a very heavy one. It was blowing too strong for the snow to remain on the ground. I suppose the morthern trade will be at an end shortly, since vessels have seen ice at Newshwang; the latter generally closes on or about the 20th, so is does not surprise anyone to hear that enow and ice have made their appearance. Brisbane, Coti 11.—The A. S. N. Co.'s steamer Yaratta arrived here this morning.

On her passage from Broadsound to Mackay she rescued twelve men with a whaleboat. off G. Isle, part of the crew of the barque Onward, lost on the 15th September, at Blond's Reef, New Caledonia. They were twenty days in the whaleboat, the provisions being bisquits soaked with salt water. Sixty hands all-told left the wreck in five boats, and they separated on the fourth day, the mate. William Bryant, being in charge of the whale-boat. The party were beating about in the boat for two days, looking for Huon Island, and the other boats; for which island they were steering. Bryant was afraid the biscuits would run short, and they ran for the Queensland coast, crossing the Barrier about east of Bell Bay and made High Peak Island. They went into Port Bowen and Shoal Water Bay, but finding no seven kanakas. The number on board the Sea. burque when lost was thirteen whites and Brisbane, Oct. 18 -The Elamang yesterday brought the mate and four of the wrecked barque Onward from Mackay. Nothing has been heard of the other boats. Advices from Lukenville are very bad. The Chinese are returning to the old workings, and Europeans are taking advantage of the Vagrant Act in order to get food from the police.

The Friedeburg, from Hamburg, has been placed in quarantine. The escort left Charters Towers with 14,000 oz. of gold. Peterson was brought up formally at the Police Court to-day and remanded. Newcastle, Oct. 18.—The export of coal for the week amounts to 22,237 tons, and of coke 24 tons.

o Malbourne, Oct 18 .- Mr Berry received telegram to-day from Mr Burns, in reference to cable duplication, in which Mr Burns states that he will submit the question to Parliament on Wednesday.

The Australasian, alluding to Sir Hercules Robinson's speech at Tamworth, says "His Excellency's theory of a Governor's function, it is needless to say, is not a dummy one. Sir Hercules takes a generous ungrudging view of his duties, and exercises his influence in every way that he sees for the benefit of the community." * A Coffee Tavern Company is about being formed with a capital of £20,000 in £1 shares, the first tavern to be opened Melbourne. Melbourne, Oct. 18. - The Education debate lasted till a late hour last night, and was adjourned to Tuesday next. Every speaker denounced the agitation to introduce religious teaching in State schools, also the action of the Ministry in reducing the teachers' salaries. Mr Sergeant moved an amendment directing the Government to increase the estimate by £20,000 in order to restore the salaries to their former rates. The amendment will probably be carried.

It is credibly stated that the Government will accept Mr Sergeant's ammendment for restoring teachers' salaries to their original rates, pending a general reduction through-

Nothing but prompt courage and ready wit could save them. He shouted to his brother, dangling at the end of the rope, ice on both sides of him, snow above him. The brother answered. He was alive, unburt, and ready to help if means of help could be devised. Hans told him to cling to the icy slope, cut steps in it and mount, and be quick about it, for he did not think he could hold on more than half an hour longer. Fortunately, Mr. Wainwright had kept his axe. He handed it to Christian, and the guide set about cutting the steps as Hans had suggested. After many difficulties and almost superhuman exertions, he succeeded. He contrived to crawl up to the edge of the crevesse. His brother gave him a hand. Then the two. uniting their strength, pulled up Mrs. Wainwright and her brother-in-law; and all four, not seriously the worse for their frightful adventure, but devoutly thankful for their hair breadth escape, got down from the mountain and returned to Pontresina.
